Queer theory is a dynamic interdisciplinary field that interrogates a wide range of beliefs about gender, sex, and sexuality. This course will introduce students to the development of queer theory through both canonical texts in the field and how it is being used today. As a result, this course frames queer theory with contemporary scholarship in queer of color critique, disability studies, and transgender studies. Major course topics analyzed through these frameworks include identity, sex, affect, time, power, embodiment, and borders.
